Keep on Poisoning The Grasshoppers

Officials of the federal and provincial departments of agriculture working on the grasshopper campaign in Alberta have issued a strong appeal to farmers in the infested areas to redouble their efforts during the next few weeks, declaring that the critical point has now been reached. "There is a general impression that poisoning operations can no longer be carried on to advantage," declares H. L. Seamens, of the dominion entomological service at Lethbridge, who has been working in co-operation with the provincial field

Adam As A Swapper

When Adam was a lone, lone boy,
Without a parent or a friend;
He had no playthings, had no joy,
Because he had no coin to spend.

No one to listen when he spoke,
And no one did his troubles heed;
His truck or trading was a joke,
The future looking bad indeed.

And when he grew to be a man,
He thought this world was more
[than sad,
Because he had no cash on hand—
More now, than when he was a [lad.

'Twas nothing bought, and nothing
[sold,

Because the world yet had no
[cash.
He needed clothes, paid for with [gold,
At feast, he'd need best kind of [hash.

His hut was dark, he had no lamp,
'Tis said he never closed the door,
Just let old sun peep in to camp
And cast his shadow on the floor.

His shadow though he viewed with [scorn,
And said "You cannot fool this [chap;

No person else has yet been born
But me, into this coinless trap.

But when he saw his shadow move,
Said he, "If I had coin to spare,
I'd buy a living thing, by jove!
And it, with me, would make a [pair."

A new idea he then conceived,
He started bartering in trade;
Then swapped a rib, for mother
[Eve;

—The finest deal he ever made.

—ANDREW OYEN.

Car Burns Up On Highway

While returning home from Calgary with three children last Sunday after spending a vacation, Mrs. M. Johnson had the misfortune to have her car destroyed by fire near Beiseker. The fire broke out under the rear seat and is believed to have been caused by an overheated exhaust.

Mrs. Johnson got the children safely out of the car but only managed to save a few of her belongings. Her efforts to subdue the blaze proved unavailing.

crops branch, who have been directing the campaign against the hoppers. "Time spent on spreading bait during July and August is well repaid, not only in actual crop saving but in reducing the hopper menace next
